Herter Hurls a Challenge to France

By GEORGE McARTHUR

PARIS (AP)—In a direct challenge to France, U. S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter today told the foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Alliance that NATO must continue to integrate its military forces under one command.

Herter's remarks at the opening session of NATO's annual ministerial review sharply underlined the major task of the session—to resolve the difference dividing French President Charles de Gaulle from his allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. De Gaulle has openly rejected the principle of integrated forces.

Herter spoke in a closed session of the Ministerial Council. A NATO spokesman reported his speech to a news conference.

Herter mentioned recent press reports implying the United States might be planning withdrawals of forces from Europe. He said these showed a fundamental misconception of U. S. policy and that the United States intends to maintain its NATO commitment.

Speaking of the concept of integrated defense, Herter said that it was on this basis that the United States makes its contribution to NATO. He said the idea of integrated defense is more important than ever.

De Gaulle has rejected this concept in favor of national rearmament and control of their own forces.

Herter said the West must seek tangible agreements with the Soviet Union on two points—arms control and the division of Germany and the related problem of Berlin.

Frances Bailey and Mrs. Ida Martin attended the installation of Hope Chapter Order of Eastern Star at the Hope Masonic Hall in Hope on Thursday night.

Mrs. J. H. Bemis and Mrs. Clarke White motored to Texarkana Thursday for the day.

Mrs. Sam Dickinson spent last Thursday in Texarkana.

Mrs. Charlie Thomas and Mrs. Robbie Wilson attended a state welfare workers meeting in Little Rock Thursday and Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. DeLamar and children, Jim and Catherine, spent Wednesday and Thursday in Little Rock.

Mrs. Bryan Womack of Willisville was a Friday visitor in Prescott.

Mrs. Ronald Price and daughter, Ronda Catherine of Albuquerque, N. M. are the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mitchell.

To Give L. R. School District $129,752

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Department of Education will re-lure $129,752 to the Little Rock School District because of the U. S. Supreme Court's action in voiding a state law which withheld the funds.

Act 5 of 1958, which along with Act 4, the school closing law, was struck down by a lower federal court and the high court upheld the action yesterday.

The Education Department, under Act 5, held back $519,220 in state aid from Little Rock after the public high schools were closed against integration in 1958-59. The money was to be used for education of the displaced students.

Joe L. Hudson, director of disbursement and accounting for the education department, said the agency would await official notification of the decision before returning the money.

Of the total withheld, $115,800.50 went to other Arkansas public schools which accepted the students; $71,077.50 went to private schools and $192,700 was given back to Little Rock because it was left over. The $129,752 held back pending a final court decision, as it was figured that much would be needed to pay other schools if Act 5 was upheld.

Hudson said.

Even as Herter spoke, de Gaulle restated his ideas to a group of French parliamentarians who visited him.

One reported he said: "During the last two World Wars Allied forces were not integrated. Nonetheless they won victories."

Herter made his expected plea that European nations shoulder a greater share of NATO's defense burden. He said Europe has regained its vitality and was able to do this. However, Herter said the United States was ready to continue its military aid program.

Before Herter spoke, French Premier Michel Debre opened the meeting with a call on the 15 nations of NATO to end their differences and preserve their "political and military solidarity."

Taking note of the differences between the allies, Debre said of NATO: "The basic traditions of each country, the awareness of the specific interests of each, sometimes lead to misunderstandings which, in turn, create serious difficulties."

Mears to Be A&M College President

MONTICELLO, Ark. (AP)—Dr. Jack W. Mears, for the past 11 years dean of personnel at Eastern New Mexico University, at Portales, N. M., will become president of Arkansas A. & M. College here on Jan. 1.

Selection of Mears to succeed Horace F. Thompson, who resigned after a long and politically tinged controversy, was announced today by Paul Godsey of England, chairman of the Board of Trustees.

There had been speculation that the board would name a former member, Charles Teeter of Star City, now dean at A. & M. to succeed Thompson.

Earlier former State Sen. Lee Reeves of Warren, now an A. & M. vice president, had been considered a likely choice for the presidency.

Instead, the board went outside the state for the new president. Mears holds a bachelor's degree in science and a master's degree in psychology. He received his doctor of philosophy degree from the University of Texas in 1949 and since then has done post-doctoral in Colorado and California.

He is a member of the Academic Council's Western Personnel Institute serving 11 Western States degree in music, and his only child, a son Don, now in junior high school, are expected to join him here shortly after Jan. 1.

Thompson, a veteran educator and administrator, quit as A. & M. head, effective Jan. 1, after several years of friction with the board, whose members are appointees of Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

What role the governor had, if any, in the situation was a matter of dispute.

Thompson, himself a one-time candidate for governor, served for a time as revenue commissioner under Gov. Francis Cherry, whom Faubus defeated for a second term nomination.

Except for the leave he took to serve in the Cherry administration, Thompson has headed A. & M. for more than 10 years.

No Comment From Faubus on Charge

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus today declined to comment on a Negro congressman's claim that Negro students have been harassed by whites in Central and High Schools here.

"As far as I'm concerned, that's a controversy between the congressman and school authorities," Faubus said.

Rep. Charles Diggs (D-Mich.) told about the alleged harassment Friday in an interview at the home of Mrs. I. C. Bates of Little Rock, Arkansas president of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

Diggs' remarks were vigorously denied by school authorities.

Faubus returned to his office today for the first time in two weeks. Except for a slight cough, he appeared to be recovered from a bout with influenza and sore throat which put him in bed Thanksgiving Week.

The governor said there was no controversy, as far as he was concerned, over recent personnel changes in the staff of the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission.

Faubus ordered his aides to investigate the matter after he received some complaints about alleged favoritism in the agency.

"I found no reason to inject myself into the matter," the governor said. He added that the AFDC "has been doing a good job" and he has accorded no criticism of the overall operation of the industry-hunting agency.

Faubus gave tentative approval to a plan under study by the Highway Commission to program road work low years in advance.

"But I think they should release a list of the projects as possible," he said.

Faubus revealed the guest at the Executive Council political. He said again the cannot be beaten in election in 1960.

Faubus was pressed men for committed political plans. He said all questions.

DOROTHY DIX

Mother-In-Law Speaks Up!

Dear Dorothy Dix:

I advise every mother of a son about to marry to give herself the "renunciation" treatment. It will save long years of heartbreak. A wise mother realizes her son goes over to his wife's side and her family. Regardless of whether she is a busy or a fine, generous person, the weaning takes place. My own has been a long bitter experience of twenty years. I have seen my son in jail and visited his wife's lover. I have sat in juvenile court and heard my two grandsons classified as delinquents. My husband and I spent thousands of dollars helping this family. Thank God, my son is now married to a fine, generous woman. However, I intend to keep a thousand miles between us. My advice is to kick the sons out and let them paddle their own canoe; very few have the intestinal stamina to take a stand with their wives for amicable family relationships on both sides. Why aren't girls trained to fit into in-law relationships. — A Mother-in-law

Dear Mother-in-law: Your bitterness is understandable. Incomprehensible, as your former daughter-in-law's actions may still seem, don't judge her too harshly. So many girls put aside dolls in nurse babies, leaving no time before marriage for physical or emotional development. As a result, they remain hopelessly adolescent; they lack the physiological qualifications of a true wife and mother. How can you expect them to cope with the delicate mother-in-law and daughter-in-law relationship?

I believe in a training course for future wives but it shouldn't stop with a course on how-to-treat our mother-in-law. I would carry the idea further and make it a school where girl would be taught the ups and downs of domesticity; and learn how best to adjust themselves to their responsibilities.

Dear Dorothy Dix:

I have been dating a boy five months. He is 17 and I will soon be 18. His mother is going to have a major operation. Should I ask him to take me to see her? My friends tell me yes; they say he probably takes it for granted that we are going steady; therefore it would be entirely proper. Would you please give me some advice on how could I find out if we are going steady and if I should go and see his mother. Barbara

Dear Barbara: By all means pay a courtesy call to your boy friend's mother as soon as she is able to see visitors. It makes no difference whether or not you are "going steady."

And for heaven's sake, don't press the issue. The boy friend is the one who should do the asking, not you. Don't be too serious!

Dear Dorothy Dix:

A young relative of mine finally, after three long years of trying, became engaged to the most popular girl in our town. Since their engagement has been announced he has changed so we hardly know him.

He is late for their dates, refuses to show any interest in the things she is collecting for their home, seldom takes her out, and lets like a first-class tightwad. During a recent illness the girl suffered her flowers saying, "She knows I love her."

If he is this kind of lover, what will he be as a husband? Already she is beginning to wonder if she has made a mistake.

I'd hate to see him lose her because I know he loves her so much that I honestly think he despises himself. He comes from a long line of men who constantly assert themselves as males by refusing to ever dry the dishes or change the baby. I'm sure he is afraid they will laugh at him if he reveals his true feelings. I've tried in vain to convince him that

Wilson, Union Will Resume Negotiations

ALBERT LEA, Minn. (AP)—Rival forces in the volatile Wilson & Co. packinghouse dispute headed today for a fresh start at the conference table and a new collision in court.

The next scheduled encounter comes Wednesday in U. S. District Court in Minneapolis where the state will try to block a company move aimed at reopening Wilson's plant here.

The plant and community have been under martial law since Friday when Gov. Orville Freeman ordered National Guard units into the scene as a result of two days of picket line violence involving strikers and non-union workers hired to replace them.

Balancing the court clash is Thursday's scheduled resumption of talks between management and union negotiators. The mediation session in Chicago will be their first meeting since negotiations were broken off Oct. 29 in a disagreement over work schedules.

The meeting was scheduled by the U. S. Mediation and Conciliation Service after the striking United Packinghouse Workers of America agreed to terms demanded by the company.

Union leaders pledged they will not tolerate any violations of future contracts and specifically will refrain from countering slow-downs, work suspensions, quickie strikes and refusal to work scheduled hours.

If a court rules that the union has reneged on these promises, the UPWA said, "an injunction can be issued against its officers, agents or members."

While company, union and state's attorneys wrangle over the next moves, limited production continues at the plant here. Under a company-union agreement, 300 non-union workers are being allowed to handle partly processed meat that otherwise would spoil. With National Guardsmen stand-no real man fears love. Can you help this misguided youth before he loses the girl who means more to him than his life? — Worried Relative

Dear Worried Relative: From what you say, the boy, instead of expressing his emotions, is revealing lack of self-confidence by making like a cave man. In any case it's very evident that he is busily trying himself into psychological knots. But, deep though your concern, let me alone.

Remain merely an on-looker. If the boy is intelligent enough to get engaged to the most popular girl in town, he's intelligent enough to work out his own salvation. However, it would do no harm to remind him that love is only grown-up when neither the man nor the woman dominates. One should supplement the other.

Proposes Network Such as the BBC

WASHINGTON (AP)—A religious leader today proposed a government TV and radio network, such as Britain's BBC, to give "creative competition" to commercial networks.

Rabbi Maurice N. Eisendrath, president of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, said a government network would provide "educational and cultural programming freed from the blight of commercials and the trauma of 'Trendex' ratings."

Eisendrath's testimony was prepared for a hearing of the Federal Communications Commission which is trying to determine the extent of its authority to regulate the broadcasting industry. The hearings are an outgrowth of the quiz show scandals and payola ing by, all was calm at the plant Monday. Violence that brought on martial law here spread Monday to the Wilson plant in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where pickets hurled stones and shouted at non-union workers.

Porkers Going Through Drills for Gator Bowl

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Coach Frank Broyles has a three-pronged recipe for getting his Arkansas Razorbacks ready for Georgia Tech in the Gator Bowl.

He said he is stressing play assignments, the kicking game and the "scoring punch" — the ability to carry the ball to pay dirt after getting inside an opponent's 20-yard line.

Georgia Tech has one of the toughest goal line defenses in the nation, Broyles declared.

The Hogs, who spent practice yesterday on conditioning drills and running mostly, have yet to hear a scouting report on Tech or see films of Tech games. Broyles said the scouting report may not be made until Thursday and the team may have to wait until it gets to Jacksonville to view the film.

Ed Lettlinger had to sit out yesterday's session because of an upset stomach, but the rest of the Porkers were in good shape. Practice sessions here wind up Friday and the Porkers will take a week off for the Christmas holidays, returning Dec. 28. They leave the following Monday for Jacksonville and will work out in the Florida city until the game Jan. 2.

The Junior Varsity and the Senior girls will take on teams from Bradley tonight on the local court starting at 7 p.m.

The exceptional Bradley team is undefeated in 12 straight games. Hope's Senior boys will enter the El Dorado tournament at El Dorado this week.

Soph Sensation Leads Detroit to 5th Victory

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

A kid blase Madison Square Garden fans call the best sophomore they've seen since Oscar Robertson is pointing the University of Detroit toward one of its best basketball seasons ever.

The name is Dave DeBusschere — and it's a name to remember, whether you're a basketball or a baseball fan. Seems this 6-6, 220-pounder is also a spectacular right-handed pitcher and fears that some major league club will grab him is all that is keeping Detroit coach Bob Calhoun from selling back to contemplate three wonderful years of basketball success.

He has him for this season at least, however, and coupled with another sophomore named Charlie North and a 5-9 sharpshooting peppercorn named Ray Albee, Dave is making the Detroit nickname of Titans a simple truism.

DeBusschere clicked for 22 points Albee for 22 and North, a 5-9 springboarder, for 29 Monday night as Detroit rolled to its fifth straight victory — 95-71 over previously unbeaten Xavier of Ohio.

Now it's two down and one to go for Coach Calhoun who said in New York last week after Detroit flattened Iowa 85-67 at the Garden that he could be convinced if his kids were convincing against Purdue, Xavier and Indiana — coming up in that order.

They blasted Purdue out of the unbeaten ranks 84-63 Saturday night. They got their best test next Saturday at Indiana (3-1), which got 23 points from 6-10 Walt Belamy in a 67-58 thumping Monday night of Kansas State, now 1-4.

West Virginia, fattening up for bigger things, battered VMI 91-70 for its 34th straight Southern Conference victory and stayed unbeaten along with Mississippi (6-0), Bradley, Texas and Missouri (4-0), and Maryland and Illinois (both 3-0), in other Monday features.

All-America Jerry West slipped in 27 points and held conference scoring leader Joe Gedro to a mere 11 as West Virginia gained a 6-0 season mark with its 37 straight home triumph. The Mountaineers bidding for the top spot nationally, have a weekend date in the Kentucky Invitational at Lexington with Kentucky, St. Louis and unbeaten North Carolina.

Erratic Kentucky got untracked, edging Kansas in overtime 77-72 at Lawrence for a 3-2 season mark. Balanced scoring, topped by Ned Jenkens' 27 points overcame the 33-point shooting of 6-8 Kansas sophomore Wayne Hightower.

Mississippi still unchallenged in a series of early season walk-overs, whipped Arkansas State 75-58, while Bradley came from 12 points behind in the last nine minutes to topple previously unbeaten Providence 57-55 on the scoring of Bobby Joe Mason and Dan Smith.

Joe Scott hit 24 points and Marty Charney 18 as Missouri made it four straight, 78-66 over Wisconsin, and Illinois had four starters in double figures, topped by John Wessels' 19, in an 85-77 decision over Marquette.

State No Match for Mississippi

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi sparred with Arkansas State for the first few minutes of the game, then poured on the steam and led all the rest of the way in a 75-58 basketball victory last night.

Arkansas State, behind 42-27 at the half, began hitting the target in the second frame and connected on eight of 10 shots from the floor. But the Indians couldn't overcome the Rebels' big lead.

Scoring honors went to Jack Waters of Mississippi, with 25, and Billy Jones paced the Indians with 16.

The Rebels cashed in on 26 of 61 field goal attempts for a 42.6 percentage, and Arkansas State made 22 of 66 for 33.3 per cent.

The deeply entrenched National Football League, seeking to avoid any head-on collision with the embryonic American League in the bidding for top-flight talent, faces the possibility of a player revolt within its own ranks.

The first indication that some of the NFL's players might jump to the rival circuit came Monday when two members of the San Francisco 49ers said they want to check the possibility of switching to the AFL.

Defensive specialist Dick Moele and end R. C. Owens were the first NFL players to announce any such intentions.

Two others — Fred Dugan and Jim Riddon — expressed a desire to play with another club, but not necessarily one in the AFL.

The reason for all four was the same: We're not playing enough and maybe we can do better elsewhere.

Officials of the two leagues have said they would honor each other's player contracts.

However, Bud Adams, owner of the Houston franchise in the AFL, has said he would like to have certain Texans now playing with the Chicago Cardinals of the NFL and Bobby Joe Conrad — and will try to pry them loose.

Moele, also a Texan who would be interested in hooking up with Dallas in the new league.

Said Owens: "It may be I could play more in the new league. I can't help feeling my career is passing me by."

Hunter's Body Is Recovered in River

CLARENDON, Ark. (AP) — The body of deer hunter Hershel E. Parker, who drowned the first day of the November deer hunting season, was recovered yesterday — the first day of the December season.

The 32-year-old Parker, a Brinkley resident; a brother, Arvil, and another man were flung into the White River when their boat overturned on Nov. 9. The others managed to get ashore, but Parker disappeared.

Two hunters found the body, which was buried later at Hillman, near Brinkley.

Parker's survivors include his widow and five small children.

Dodd Happy With Tech Workouts

ATLANTA, (AP) — Coach Bobby Dodd is wearing a broader smile these days. His top quarterback, Fred Braselton, is back in top form at Georgia Tech.

Tech last night staged the first of five night workouts scheduled for this week, and Dodd thought the performance by his Yellow Jacket footballers was excellent.

Special attention was devoted to passing, and Braselton was a stand-out. His passes bit ends Fred Murphy and Jim Powell and backs Chick Graming and Frank Nix regularly.

"But more important," Dodd added, "was the fact that Fred was throwing easily and without the pain he has been suffering since he was injured in the Duke game, Oct. 31."

Standouts on defense were guard John Neal Reed and center Maxie Baughman. Tech concentrated on defenses calculated to stop Arkansas' running attack. The Jackets will meet Arkansas in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville Fla., Jan. 2.

The boys looked fast and showed good spirit," said Dodd. "We will need all the speed we can get in order to contain Frank Broyles' fast team."

BOSTON (AP) — "I've got a lot of work to do to get back," Sugar Ray Robinson said, "but I'll be on time for the title fight."

Robinson, who has held one version or another of the world middleweight championship five times, had just finished his first round technical knockout of hopeful Bob Young.

He belted Young off his feet five times in the second round Monday night, but was far from satisfied with his first performance since he regained the world title from Carmen Basilio March 25, 1958.

"I missed a lot, but I guess that 20 minutes makes a difference," he said.

"I'd planned to go four or five rounds, give the people a good show," the old champion said.

"But he hurt me in the first when he hit me in the face and that changed my attitude completely. I had to get it over with as fast as I could."

Young, the New England light heavyweight champion from Providence, R. I., caught Robinson with a good, solid left hook late in the first round of a scheduled 10-rounder. He spent most of the fight on his back.

Robinson caught him with a flashing combination early in the second round and knocked him down for a six count with a left. Young went down three more times before Robinson put him away with a left hook.

Referee Eddie Bradley didn't even start a count on the last knockdown, just waved his hands and raised Robinson's hand. The time was 1:19.

Robinson, now 38, appeared lean and hard at 161½ for the bout. He said he didn't get a chance to see Paul Pender, Brookline, Mass., fight in the co-feature.

Pender, the NBA's seventh-ranked challenger, is scheduled to fight Robinson for the Massachusetts-New York version of the middleweight championship in Boston Jan. 22.

Pender was obviously coasting in taking a 10-round decision from Gene Hamilton of New York. He opened up only in the last round, and belted Hamilton around with both hands.

Iran Wanted
Ike to Stay
Much Longer

By WEBB MCKINLEY
TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The Iranians had only one complaint today about President Eisenhower's visit — it wasn't long enough.

During his six hour stay Monday, the Iranians cheered Eisenhower as they never cheered a President before. The impact of the President will not soon be forgotten.

An editorial in one of Iran's leading newspapers, Etila'at, keyed the local feeling: "This unprecedented welcome showed that Iran supports and confirms the peace-loving policy of Eisenhower. Therefore, Iran will always bid him welcome."

An impressive majority of Tehran's two million citizens saw Eisenhower or heard his message of praise for their steadfastness against Communist pressures.

Mayor Nasser Zulfaghari estimated that 750,000 lined the President's route. Thousands saw him still more television network.

Veteran Iranian newspapermen pointed out that the turnout was doubly impressive because Eisenhower was not an official holiday. Government workers had the day off, but factory workers, artisans, clerks and businessmen were supposed to stay at their jobs.

"I never saw such a reception in my life," said one Iranian. "Think what it might have been if he had been here when we all could have seen him."

At Mehrabad Airport, just before taking off for Athens, he apologized to this beautiful country and all its citizens because he did not and could not stay longer. "I would like to stay as many days as I have hours," he said.

Henrick is vice president in charge of news at WTVJ-TV in Miami.

CITL (AP) — Pope today named two cardinals of the Catholic Church and at the same time pointedly restated opposition to artificial birth control as a means of controlling population.

American prelates—Albert Gregory Meyer, archbishop of Fargo, Minn.; and Alois J. Muench, bishop of St. Paul, Minn.—were named by the 78-year-old pope in a secret conclave in the Vatican's Consistory.

In his reference to birth control, the pope made no mention of the controversy kicked up by the possible use of U.S. foreign birth control funds in his linking of birth control with the "problem of the world's population in an event of wide international left no doubt of his part of humanity."

and in his Latin allocution to the new cardinals, the pope said that the "avoid this very grave error in no case can erroneous be adopted or lethal limitation of births."

THE STORY: A torn page of a newspaper gives Bill Cleaves the idea that the tramp that had been unloving in the park might be known at St. Mark's church. Miss Mabry thinks the tramp took Bill's small son Davey, who is missing. Police have been called. But Davey is a prisoner on a moving van to which the movers have just added a cupboard in which is a dead body.

Chapter XIV

Bill was not at all sure of his own defenses. Where Sergeant Mercer's arrival had served to calm Carol, it had proved an assault on his own inner reserves. It had been for him the final, official admission that Davey was indeed in danger and that their fears, his and Carol's, were real.

"What I want you to do," the sergeant had said, "is sit tight here and be available in case I need to contact you."

The police were on the job; they would do whatever could be done without any assistance from him. It was his part now merely to sit and wait for news of their activities. Inwardly Bill shuddered at the thought of what that news might be. Carol was now sitting on the window seat in an attitude of mute withdrawal, her hands clasped lightly in her lap. He had always believed that a crisis, a real crisis, brought people closer together. He knew now it only tore them apart.

She shook her head. "I know I'm acting like a fool, but I've never had to face anything like this before."

His gaze, falling to the soiled newspaper which until now had lain forgotten at the far end of the window seat, caught and held upon it with sudden fury. What on earth had he wanted with it? Crossing to the paper, he snatched it up. Wadding it into an angry, twisted ball, he turned and hurled it at the shadows across the room.

Startled at this sudden burst of violence, Carol looked up in alarm. Bill nodded furiously toward the crumpled newspaper at the other side of the room. "A souvenir," he said bitterly. "I got it from the gardener ever in the park."

"The park?" Carol frowned in bewilderment.

"It's the one he had — the man on the bench. He left it behind." Carol stared at him for a moment in wordless astonishment.

"Bill, why didn't you show it to the police? If he handed it, then his fingerprints must be all over it. They could check."

"Why — I guess I just put it down and forgot about it. I just didn't think..."

Already Carol was across the room, picking up the crumpled paper. Handling it gingerly, pulling at the corners, she started to straighten it out.

"I guess I've wrecked it," Bill said numbly.

Carol shook her head. "No, maybe not." Swiftly she separated the paper into individual sheets, spreading them out on the window seat. Suddenly she stopped, nodding down at the one she held in her hand. "Bill, look! There's something torn out here."

"Out of the church announcement?" Bill regarded the paper without immediate comprehension. "What could that have to do with—?"

"But maybe he tore it out!" Carol handed him the wrinkled sheet. "Bill, it might be terribly important. You can't tell. We've got to find out what he tore out of here."

Nodding, Bill continued to stare at the sheet. His gaze, which had moved up to the heading, suddenly dulled with disappointment. "It's yesterday edition. The store won't have one now."

"But someone will, Mr. McCracken. He collects them."

"Sure!" Bill started rapidly toward the door. "I'll be right back."

She was still staring down at the paper when Bill returned a few minutes later.

"Here it is!" He held out a duplicate paper as if in triumph. "St. Mark's announcement. See, there isn't anything on the other side but an ad. just part of an illustration."

Carol hesitated, unwilling to say anything that would curb his excitement too soon. "There's just the name," she suggested cautiously. "and the schedule of services."

"And the address," Carol said gently. "Yes, I know," she said gently. "But, Bill, if he was reading this paper today, then he must have picked it up after someone else threw it away. The first owner might have torn this out. It seems so strange..."

"But maybe not," Bill insisted. "With these eccentrics — there's just the chance..."

"Of course," Carol said. "We'd better give it to the police right

Eisenhower said: "And now, briefly permit me to speak on a cause close to my heart. The cause is peace and friendship in freedom."

Until Eisenhower reached this point in his speech, the Red bloc, 78 strong, had been sitting quietly, not joining in the outbursts of applause by the 176 members of the government bloc and other members.

Another call by Eisenhower for a dynamic peace, freeing the world of "the intolerable burden of armaments," went over big. The Reds, however, showed far less enthusiasm when Eisenhower urged the free nations to keep their defenses strong until the Soviets agree to a trustworthy peace.

The speech to Parliament, whose building on Constitution Square once was a palace of Greek kings, was the highlight of another busy day in Eisenhower's sands of Greece filled the square to cheer him.

After addressing Parliament, Eisenhower plunged into a discussion of international problems with Premier Constantine Karanmanlis.

The President and the Premier issued a communique declaring world peace must be consolidated "in such a way as to guarantee the independence of all nations and the freedom of the individual."

They reviewed moves to reduce world tensions, but also reaffirmed their steadfast support away.

Bill paused. "But they've already pulled out. I looked on my way downstairs."

"Then we'll have to call them. They said we should if anything turned up."

"Look," Bill said with sudden urgency. "I'm going to St. Mark's myself. The car's right outside. I can be there in just a few minutes. Who knows? Lightning might strike — the guy could be there right now."

"Bill, it doesn't seem—" Bill held out a hand, half in entreaty. "Carol, I've got to do something. I've got to go! I can't just sit here. I've got to move — talk to someone at least. This may be foolish, I know that, but if it is, isn't it better for me to waste my time on it than to bother the police? Maybe they've heard of this guy. Anyway, I'm going over there."

of objectives of the 15-nation Atlantic Pact as well as the United Nations.

Eisenhower pledged anew the interest of the American people in Greece's economic development and security. Karanmanlis expressed appreciation for Eisenhower's "great endeavor for peace."

The talks also covered what the communique called "Greece's special position in the Balkans and the general situation in this area as well as in the eastern Mediterranean."

Answering questions, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower had asked him to say that the United States and the Greek government "see eye to eye on all Greek problems."

Eisenhower, he added, asked him to make clear that U. S. aid to Greece will be continued "in all forms."

There was no reference in the range ballistic missile bases in Greece.

juries today asked for an investigation by a U. S. Grand jury and the federal Civil Rights Commission.

U. S. Atty. Osro Cobb shortly afterward turned down the request of Mrs. Margaret Morrison and Mrs. H. H. Ray for a grand jury inquiry.

He said he found nothing to justify to him did not contain any suggestion that any qualified person was denied the right to vote or any contention of error in the election returns.

Furthermore, he said, no federal election was involved.

He said he found nothing to justify taking the matter to a federal grand jury.

But Cobb said he would forward the complaint to the U. S. Department of Justice at Washington.

He also declined to speculate on the "ultimate disposition" of the matter, but presumably the department will decide whether the Civil Rights Commission should be notified.

Mrs. Morrison and Mrs. Ray set out their complaint in a lengthy letter to Cobb and then conferred with the federal attorney for about an hour.

They declared "it is our firm belief" that the civil rights of many Little Rock citizens were violated during the school election and the campaign preceding it.

Mrs. Morrison, who has been long identified as a staunch segregationist, and Mrs. Ray, who had not been in the public eye previously, lost in an attempt to unseat President Everett Tucker Jr. and member B. Frank Mackey of the racially-moderate school board at the Dec. 1 election.

The women's letter declared that "the tight grip of which a small clique has obtained on the political, economic and social life... of Little Rock has made it impossible for us to have our day in the Pulaski County courts or before the Pulaski County election commissioners."

The letter spoke of "fear of reprisals from the Chamber of Commerce, the Little Rock School Board, the municipal government of Little Rock and the Little Rock communications media."

"Because we dared oppose two hand-picked candidates for Little Rock School Board," the letter said, "we were immediately classed as persons of ulterior motives, bent on eliminating public schools or disrupting their peaceful operation."

Across The Counter

We think you should raise the bodily injury limits under your auto policy. An increase doesn't cost very much, but could mean thousands of dollars of extra protection to you when you need it most.

"But," you ask, "does the ordinary fellow, who is paying on a house and a car ever get stuck beyond policy limits? Aren't most of the big claims against wealthy people or firms?"

The answer is this: Many "ordinary fellows" get STUCK each year. And, while a high percentage of the claims over $100,000 might be filed against comparatively well-to-do people, few have that much "ready cash." Therefore they PAY EXTRA for extra protection.

Recently, the insurance press told the story of an "ordinary fellow." He hit a car, forcing it into a pedestrian. His policy limits were $10,000 to $20,000, which means $10,000 limit for any one person. The pedestrian sued. A judgment for $25,000 was obtained. The policy limits of $10,000 were paid. The article concluded: "The pedestrian's attorney is proceeding against the insured's PERSONAL ASSETS to satisfy the balance of the judgment." There's your answer!

Stop by our office at your first opportunity and let us show you how little MUCH MORE protection will cost!
